
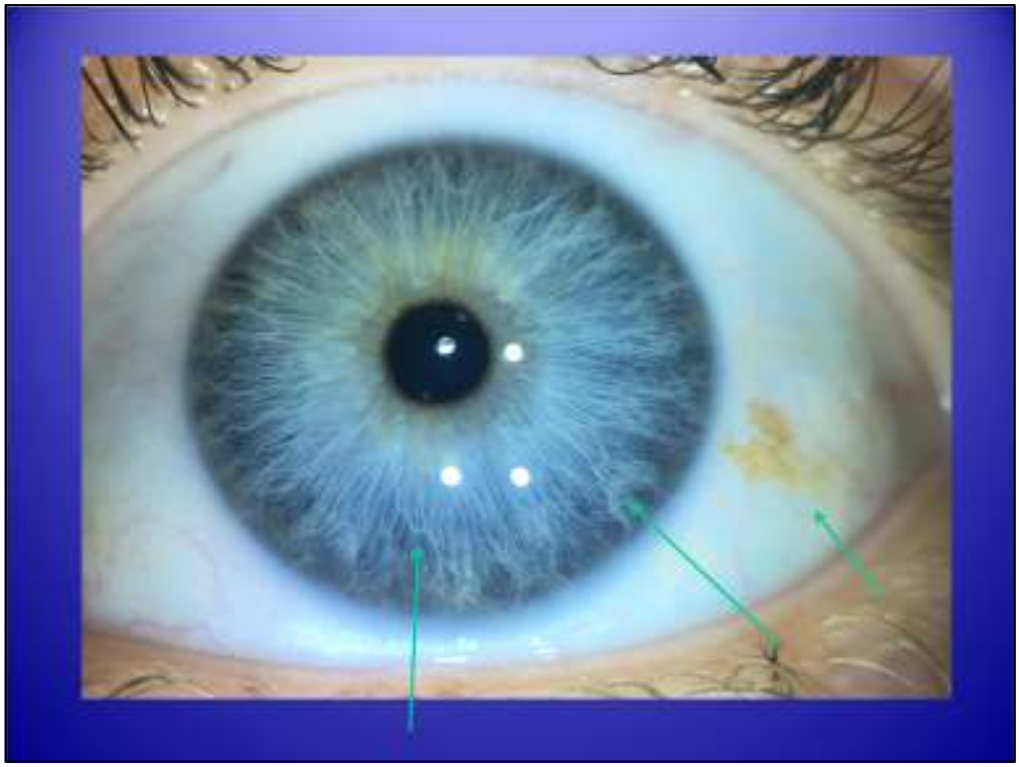
- Her eye is full of transversals. That asparagus lacuna top is going the wrong direction.
- Does she have extreme pain in the coccyx? There is a school of thought from chiropractors that if the coccyx is out of alignment there is a chance of leukemia. So they may do further testing, kinesiology to check other areas.
- So many transversals, looks like she would be in a tremendous amount of pain. Any bruising or spleen enlargement?
- Sclera, breast and spleen, Left eye sclera Something definitely up with the blood.



- Seeing the left eye now really shows the spleen and the involvement.
- I don't think I've ever seen so many transversals in a set of eyes.
- The sclera marking being so large reacts to the spleen and lower left breast area. You just have to ask about both areas.
- According to Leonards sclerology chart this picks up the spleen, broncho pulmonary nodes and left ventricle of the heart. She should've stayed home.
- That eye when you look at it from afar, looks like electricity. You know those old glass glove things you put your hand on and static electricity appears? That's what her eye looks like.
